Customer Reviews

This is a fun way to deal with stress. They even use coloring as a stress reliever in college. These are beautiful designs with plenty of small areas to color. There are one on a page with white space behind them. I tried different techniques for coloring. First I used gel pens. They worked well, but there was a limited color palette to work from. Then I used coloring pencils, Prismacolor are best. There is a wide range of colors and it is an easy way to fill in the fine lines with a fine point. Next I used chalk markers. They worked well for large areas to color, but bled through a bit. Then I used Bic mark it markers. It has a good range of colors, but bled through. Sharpies work well and have a good color range, but bled through the page. Then I tried calligraphy pens. It was difficult to place the lines where I wanted, and they were the worst for bleeding through the page. If you use these type of pens and markers, you might want to place cardboard or some other backing behind your page so that they do not ruin your other creations. I did not use crayons because I had none, but I think the lines are too intricate for them, anyway. My choice for coloring will be colored pencils or sharpies/markers with a board to back up the page I am working on. It is a fun way to pass time. I received this coloring book at a discounted price so that I could give an honest and unbiased review. I like to share my experiences with others so that they might make an informed and intelligent decision in buying.

This book is obviously self-published, probably by someone looking to make a quick buck on the adult coloring trend without putting much effort into the product. Like other reviewers, I wanted a cat-themed coloring book. It gets two stars for meeting that requirement. The back cover image (which is very cheap-looking and stylistically doesn't match the rest of the book) bleeds onto the front. There is no copyright page, which is telling since the styles of designs in the book vary to the point where it's obvious they're from multiple artists; some of the drawings feature the same cat faces in different settings, making me wonder if those pages were designed with pre-made vector sets rather than being hand-drawn by the mysterious publisher. The quality of images is very poor--almost all of them are highly pixelated like they'd been stretched to fit a letter-sized page. The paper is very thin; it's your basic 20-lb copy paper, so markers will not be the best medium for coloring the pages, as they will bleed through badly. At least the pages are one-sided. I received this book as a promotional item through a review site, however the seller failed to provide a working discount so I ended up paying full price anyways. You'd be better off shelling out the extra $2 for a Dover coloring book.

I bought this coloring book as a gift for my sister in law, who's the ultimate hippy cat lady and a coloring lover. The book has a total of 19 coloring pages, instead of 20 as stated in the product description. 4 of them are almost identical, 3 look like they're drawn by hand and several pages are a rather small motive which leaves them with very thin lines that don't seem good coloring quality to me whatsoever. The fact that there are almost repeating motives in there goes a bit against the "creative" in the product description as well. In the end it says "Thank you, I hope you had fun". That's just kind of weird to me. "I" hope you had fun, so who is "I"? There's no story line through the book or anything so this is so really random. Overall I am not too impressed and a bit disappointed, but for $5.99 it is a "you get what you pay for" kind of a deal I would say. It's not absolutely horrible but also not of a high quality happy maker in my opinion.3 Stars given, an "it's okay" since the pages are clear, decent quality paper and the price is appropriate. - - I have received this item at a discount in exchange for an honest review, reflecting my personal views and perceptions

OK, you get 20 cat pictures by a variety of artists. Several of the cats are not exactly what I'd call 'cute.' Closer to 'creepy,' actually. But there's only four of them, and maybe you don't find fluffy kittens with preternaturally long fangs creepy!! I'd have preferred a better quality of paper (markers bleed through, and I can't use my watercolor pencils at all), and perforations to more neatly take out individual pictures. Still, the pictures are by different artists, which makes for a nice selection of styles, and the majority of them really ARE cute. And what was I expecting for $4 anyway, a collection of colorable Vermeers? So yeah, for the price, I'll give it five stars. But I'll probably go for a pricier book next time.
